Most Merchants Favor
Hour Parking, But Not Too Strict

A desire for some action to give patrons of Newmarket stores better parking accommodation was evident in a straw vote of Main St. merchants conducted by The Era.

"Are you in favor of the proposed one hour parking by-law?" The Era asked every merchant on the east side of lower Main St. with the exception of three or four who were not in their stores at the time. Time did not permit interviewing the west side merchants. Here are the answers:

1. "I'm not opposed to it. I think it could be done, if handled tactfully."
2. "Absolutely in favor of it."
3. "I don't know. There are some habitual offenders that something could be done about."
4. "No, it would offend the farmers, but it would be a good thing if people would observe the by-law, without being forced to."
5. "Yes. It is up to the council to take action. I leave my car on Main St. sometimes, because my neighbors do, but I shouldn't be allowed to."
6. "No. They might ask the town people kindly not to use Main St. for parking on Saturdays."
7. "Yes. A lot of the cars are left by town people."
8. "Fifty-fifty. There would be business lost and business gained. Something should be done. The best plan would be parking on one side. And they should advertise the space at the town hall."
9. "Hour parking is a good idea."
10. "I don't care. It can't be done."
11. "Absolutely. It is not fair to park all day."
12. "No. But if they are going to do anything about it, they should provide parking places first. The town hall square was filled up last Saturday night. Widdifield park might be used for parking. Cars would be safe there. Put up signs inviting people to drive in from Water St. and provide a walk up from Timothy St."
13. "Yes. Town people, particularly the business people, are the worst offenders. Give the farmers privileges."
14. "No. Let people do as they please."
15. "I am in favor of anything that will keep Main St. clear for the transient trade. Direct people to the parking places."
16. "Yes. The chief offenders are not the farmers. I doubt if the farmers would mind at all."
17. "One hour parking is enough on Main St."
18. "I have always been in favor of limited parking. The merchants are being robbed. When I was mayor, I brought in 20 minutes parking, but the merchants killed it."
19. "Hour parking would be a terrible thing. We would run the risk of farmers going elsewhere. We shouldn't go too hard. We should direct people to parking grounds."

MISS EDMED DIES IN 68TH YEAR

Ill only two or three days, Miss Elizabeth (Nelle) Edmed, 43 Eagle St., Newmarket, died in her 68th year on Friday. She had been in poor health for two years.

Born in Kent, England, she came to Canada with her mother about 50 years ago, living at York Mills, in King township and latterly in Newmarket.

Miss Edmed was very fond of sewing, and was also actively interested in the church. She was a member of St. Paul's Church of England.

Rev. A. J. Patstone conducted the service on Monday afternoon. Pallbearers were T. F. Doyle, J. E. Nesbitt, Ross Black, Kettie Roy, Roy Sharpe, Glenville, Wilbert Carruthers, James Moorby. Interment was made in Newmarket cemetery.

Surviving are two sisters and a half-brother, Mrs. Robert Moore, Newmarket (mother of Mrs. J. O. Little); Mrs. John Bambridge, Mount Albert; James Knott, Holt.

WINS HOLIDAY

Newmarket high school, represented by Bob Dales, won signal honors at the Ontario Athletic Commission district meet at Orillia. One of the best athletes that N.H.S. has produced, young Dales won the senior high jump at 5 feet 7 1/2 inches, and then won the senior pole vault at 11 feet. His victories won him a three weeks summer holiday at the Ontario Athletic Commission camp on Lake Couchiching. Photo by Budd Studio.

High School Addition Postponed For Vote

New Teacher Engaged At High School Board Meeting

The Ontario municipal and railway board has advised the town that Newmarket must obtain consent of the electors before issuing debentures for an addition to the high school, according to a letter read by A. M. Mills, secretary, at a high school board meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

George D. Wark was in the chair.

W. J. Patterson read to the board a report that Stouffville had received permission to issue necessary debentures for a similar addition.

"The question arises why Stouffville should receive permission," Mr. Patterson said.

"I suppose that they have a very small debt," said P. W. Pearson. "And they will save the expense of sending their pupils to Markham," said Mr. Patterson. Stouffville will teach all high school subjects for the first time.

"We should decide whether it would be wise to ask the council for a vote now or wait until the regular vote," said Mr. Patterson. "We might stir up opposition. I think it would be wiser to wait."

"We would not have time to get it started during the holidays," said Mr. Patterson. "And we would get a more representative vote later on," said G. A. Binns.

"If we had a vote now, some people would say we were trying to put something over," said Mr. Patterson.

The board passed a resolution asking the town council to submit the question to the ratepayers at the next regular election. At the suggestion of A. N. Belugin, the board attached a rider to the effect that the board was strongly in favor of the vocational wing.

Miss Lorna Pearson, Queensville, a specialist in English and history, was appointed to the vacancy on the high school staff left by the resignation of J. E. Cruickshank. Miss Pearson will teach commercial work and geography, and was engaged at an initial salary of $1,500.

Other teachers were re-engaged at the same salaries with the usual increase of $50 a year to those entitled to it.

"We are out of step with other schools in the matter of the board secretary's salary," stated W. J. Patterson.

"This is a surprise to me," said

DRUG STORES WILL BE OPEN

Newmarket drug stores will be open every night to 10 p.m. until Sept. 12, and later on Saturdays.

MANAGER RESIGNS

R. C. Swerdfeger has resigned as general manager of Yorkdale Co-operative, Newmarket and Aurora, as the result of ill health.

A. M. Mills, the secretary. "I thought that $100 was the average."

Mr. Patterson stated that the secretary of the Aurora board received $255, and that the former Newmarket secretary, Henry Senneker, felt he wanted to give part of his time to the town.

Mr. Binns and Mr. Pearson asked that more information be secured concerning other board secretaries' salaries.

"We have a secretary at the high school doing splendid work," Mr. Wark mentioned. It was stated that she received $40 a month for ten months.

"The position is regarded as a stepping-stone to a better position," said Mr. Patterson.

Stating that southern high schools had restored salary cuts, and that Newmarket salaries had been cut at the request of the southern boards that Newmarket should fall in line, Principal J. E. Bastedo stated that several teachers had been asking if the board would consider restoration of salary cuts.

Mr. Bastedo explained, for the information of new members of the board, that the maximum salaries had been $3,500 for the principal, $2,700 for male assistants, and $2,350 for women, and the annual increases had been $100.

In 1933, he explained, salaries were cut about 20 per cent, the annual increase was cut to $50, and the maximums were cut to $3,000 for the principal, $2,350 for male assistants and $2,000 for women. Mr. Bastedo said that it was hard for the school to keep good teachers with only a $50 increase.

Members of the board seemed to think that they should wait until there was a more definite improvement in business conditions.

Mr. Patterson said that the only teachers who could have any complaint were those engaged before the salary cuts, and Mr. Chantler suggested that the board might take up the cases of individual teachers who felt themselves entitled to consideration.

SAYS SUNDAY BALL WOULD BE THIN EDGE

Sunday Softball Suggestion
Brings Answer From Farm

Editor, The Era: I read with a great deal of interest your editorial on Sunday softball, and would beg leave to ask a few questions, which I would like you to answer through the columns of your paper.

In the first place, what is your candid opinion as to the meaning of the commandment, to remember the sabbath day and keep it holy? Christ taught us that we were to love the Lord with all our heart and soul and if we loved him, we would keep his commandments. Do you suppose that if we did love the Lord with all our heart and soul we would have any desire to either play ball, or golf, or go motoring for the pleasure of it on the sabbath day?

To allow ball playing on the sabbath, would it not be another case of the story about the Arab and his camel which asked to get its head into the tent, because it was cold. Leave granted, the Arab eventually found himself out in the cold and the camel had possession of the tent. Or take another example, some few years ago when Ontario was under the O.T.A., the liquor interests asked permission to sell 4.4 beer and got it. The next step was the L.C.A., then the beer parlors and now we find ourselves wallowing in beer and beer accidents with our government doing all they can to advance the sale of it. The next step will be hard liquors in the beer rooms.

In case we allow Sunday ball, how long will it be until we have conditions similar to those in the country to the south of us, where a number of their professional games are pulled off on Sunday. Every sabbath there are hundreds of thousands of dollars spent on sports. At the same time, the cause of Christ can go begging and those trying to promote it can not in many, many cases, get the wherewithal to do it. Is it not a good many instances the same here today. Many people think nothing of filling up their gas tank and going off on Sunday for 50 or 100 miles, and have a good time, but when asked for some support for the church, money is too scarce.

We often hear the argument put forth by town and city people who wish to play golf or ball on the sabbath, that it is the only time they get a chance to play. Is that correct. Most people in the town or city get an afternoon, and some of them two a week, off. A good many are off work at 4 p.m. S.T. and most of them by five at any rate. Should they not get the time they need through the week for sports without breaking the sabbath?

If it is right that some men are so busy through the week that they cannot find the necessary time for recreation, why not adjust affairs and give those busy fellows some slack time and let some of the unemployed, whom we support through relief, a chance to do some of the work?

What percentage of the people we see out playing ball or golf and so on on Sunday is there that cares anything about the cause of Christ, our church or anything in connection with it?

Personally, to allow softball on Sunday, would just be allowing Satan to drive the wedge already started in our church and its teaching further on its way. We find people advocating dancing in the church organizations, we also find them pulling off gambling stunts to raise money to support the church. All of these things, we believe, it goes without saying, have a depressing effect on the moral standing of the church and its people in the community.

As far as allowing ball games on Sunday to keep the young people out of something worse is concerned, two wrongs never make one right, the good book teaches us, if a thing is wrong, it is wrong. There is absolutely no excuse for doing one thing that is wrong to right another wrong.

Again I might refer to the beer parlors. We were promised by the present government that the sale of beer through the present system would reduce the consumption and do away with bootleggers and what has it done? We find conditions in that line the worst they have been for years and it will be the same thing if we allow a loosening up on the observance of the sabbath.

First Game Is Five-All Affair, Mayor Singles

Boys Miss Opportunities
In First Softball Game
Of Season

The 1938 softball season opened with a bang at the Stuart Scott grounds on Thursday evening of last week. The Newmarket club played hosts to their old-time rivals, Aurora. The game was called at the end of seven innings with the score standing at 5-5.

A very large crowd was on hand to witness the opening game, in which the mayor, Dr. S. J. Boyd; reeve, Dr. L. W. Dales; and former warden, J. O. Little, took part in the opening ceremonies.

J. O. Little took his place on the mound with Reeve Dales on the receiving end, in the catcher's box. Mayor Boyd took a healthy swing at the first ball pitched, making sure of a single. Both the Newmarket Citizen's band and R. S. A. Bugle Band were on hand to add to the evening's enjoyment.

The game in itself was a typical pre-season affair, both clubs missing chances to add to their score. As the score would indicate, the game was very even throughout. The Newmarket club drew first blood by scoring in the early part only to have Aurora tie it up in the next inning.

In the sixth inning, the Redmen bunched a few nice hits to add three more to their total, and carried a three-run lead into the seventh.

and half of the inning when White, Aurora's centre fielder, took a mighty swing at the ball, landing it out in the cars, scoring a homer and driving in two runners who were already on bases. Aurora added one more run in the seventh and Newmarket replied in their half to make the score even.

Wes. Niles, Newmarket pitcher, deserves special mention for his fine work on the mound and also polling two hits and a walk in three times at bat.

One of the "headlights" of the game occurred when Harvey Gibney batted a ball into a car headlight of the president of the local club, Charlie Holmes.

Redmen Win Thriller 8-7 Burkholder Turns Tide

Joe's Strategy And Speedy
Base-Running, Win
Evening

BY FRED THOMPSON
In a fast, hard-fought game played Tuesday evening, the local Redmen defeated Richmond Hill 8-7.

The Hill boys combed Bill VanZant and Alex Webster for a total of 11 assorted bingles but left seven runners stranded on the bases, while the locals were limited to seven hits by George Stong and Ted Bennett.

Stong had the locals swinging at the ozone while he was on the mound, fanning nine in the five innings he worked. But when the Reds started a bunting barrage in the fourth inning, Stong was helpless.

One thing the game did was to show the advantage of good base-running. The speed the locals were showing, leads one to believe Joe Spillite must have had the boys over at the race-track at some time or other. Also Joe's strategy stood him in good stead, using pinch-hitters one after another.

In all, 13 players were used to get the above result. Bill VanZant pitched good enough ball to win any game, but errors at critical times had him in hot water. He was taken out for a pinch-hitter during the rally in the fourth inning.

Webster held the Hill heavy artillery to three hits in the three frames he worked. Wes. Niles brought Hill home with the winning run on a drive to short left. Harvey Gibney was the leading man with the big bat, getting a single, double and triple and scoring two runs for a large evening's work.

Humble Folk Driven To Mission Churches - Pastor

Hopes For A Wesley Revival
To Make Over World
Of To-day

A service of unusual loveliness took place at Trinity United church on Sunday evening when members of three churches combined to mark the conversion of John Wesley 200 years ago.

Rev. W. E. Wright of Montreal was the speaker. Rev. Dr. D. McIntyre of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church and Rev. Dr. W. S. Alexander of the Christian-Congregational church participated in the service. Rev. H. R. McMath of Trinity was also in the pulpit.

"We are commemorating an event which took place in the soul of a man," said Mr. Wright. "This is unusual. We often commemorate things men have done. Today we commemorate something that God did. We are celebrating the fact that Wesley found his heart strangely warmed within him."

"Wesley went out into the world with a wonderful education, to convert men, but found himself handicapped. He found that he did not understand God. When our parliaments are discussing sweepstakes, lotteries, etc., I say that we need to awaken to the terrible effect of sin."

OBSERVE CHILDREN'S DAY
A special children's day program has been arranged at the Christian church on Sunday, for both morning and evening services. The program, "Gates Ajar," will be presented and a girls' choir will assist in the services.

In 25 years, "Wesley made such a transformation in the life of England that it saved England from the blood of the French Revolution—talk about a social gospel!"

"Wesley got his conversion not from his own communion but from humble folks. When we go about the country today and see the number of little missions, I feel it is an indication that there are many humble folk who want to find Jesus, who unfortunately get a fright welcome in our churches."

"Those humble folk from whom Wesley got his conversion knew more of the fellowship of Jesus in five minutes than Wesley had learned in 30 years."

Rector Of St. Paul's Would Not Use Pulpit To Recruit

Hope Of World Peace
Brought About By Churches Is Seen

Should the pulpit be used to recruit men for war?

Major the Rev. Clarke Wallace at the garrison parade service in Queen's Park in Toronto on Sunday said: "We don't like war, but you must remember that it is not un-Christian to use force or sacrifice oneself for one's country."

Another Anglican pastor, interviewed by a city newspaper, Rev. Canon W. L. Baynes-Reed said that he would not only appeal from the pulpit for recruits but would go to war himself. Yet another Anglican, Rev. John Frank, said that millions of Christians believe "that peace can never be achieved by the use of methods that would be employed in modern warfare," and that he would never use his pulpit for recruiting.

Interviewed by The Era, Rev. A. J. Patstone of St. Paul's Anglican church, Newmarket, said that he was in the ministry during the last war and that he supposed he had done some indirect recruiting from the pulpit. He didn't think he would do so again in the event of another war.

"In the last war we thought we were fighting for a moral issue, but when it was all over we began to think we had got a wrong slant on it," said Mr. Patstone. "War does not seem to fit in with Christianity."

"In the event of war I would have the church engage in humanitarian work, but I would not use the church to promote war."

"I see real hope that the Chris-

A large miscellaneous shower was given Miss Aileen Sargent at the home of Mrs. Robert Hunt, Gorham St., last Thursday evening. Miss Sargent's marriage to Mr. Wm. Greig, popular musician, will take place the latter part of June.

When the young couple entered the house, Mrs. Aubrey Seythes played the wedding march and they were surprised to find 50 friends awaiting them. The house was decorated with yellow and white streamers, with white lilacs and yellow candles in the dining-room.

They were showered with confetti, then seated under the archway to open the numerous useful and lovely presents. Mrs. Seythes and Mrs. Leonard Little entertained with singing. At the close of the evening, the hostess served a dainty lunch.

Bootleg Downfall Credited To Council, Police, Crown

Advocate Says Will to Enforce Law Prime Necessity

The current issue of "The Temperance Advocate" says, under the heading, "Bootleggers Balked in Dry Town": "Newmarket is a local option town. It has a dry mayor and several dry councillors. Newmarket police have complained about the difficulty of law enforcement in the absence of a permit for brewery and brewery warehouse-purchased beer. The Newmarket council received a resolution from Leamington, where, despite the lifting of local option, it is charged the blind pigs still operate as vigorously as before the vote. The resolution asked other municipal councils to overturn the government for the restoration of the permit for such beer purchases. The Newmarket council passed a resolution asking for the restoration of the permit and the limiting of the quantity purchasable. The Ontario Temperance Federation has, without avail, asked again and again for these measures."

"During the council's discussion at Newmarket, Dr. L. W. Dales, reeve, declared, 'The bootlegger situation is at a standstill in the town just now. You can't buy a bottle of beer just now.' That was that last conviction," said N. L. Mathews, K.C., clerk and solicitor.

"Apparently even in the difficult situation imposed on the police by Mr. Odette, it is possible with a dry council, a police force that is in earnest, and a sympathetic attorney, to deal with the bootlegger in a local option town, with some measure of success. The problem of the bootlegger is not peculiar to any system of sale or non-sale. It crops up under all systems. Its cure is efficient law enforcement; but to secure this a sympathetic local official and an honest and intelligent police force is a prime necessity."

The children under the leadership of Miss Mary Laddy, their teacher, began to turn the soil on Tuesday forenoon. A good deal of their efforts were directed at the removal of twitch-grass.

THE VOCATIONAL WING

It seems that before the town can borrow money to pay its half of the cost of a vocational wing to the high school the municipal board will require an approving vote of the ratepayers. Such a vote, it is said, would cost the town about $150, and it is therefore likely to be postponed until the annual council election. Ordinarily, for the town to issue debentures, it is necessary either to have an approving vote of the ratepayers or to have the consent of the municipal board. In other words, the function of the municipal board would seem to be to save the expense of a vote where there is no question about the good position of the municipality and the desirability of the proposed expenditure. The expenditure in the present instance has the approval of another department of the government, the department of education, which has agreed to pay its half of the cost, and Newmarket's financial position is enviable.

Delay Deplored

Our own feeling is that it is too bad, when this expenditure is to be made anyway, and it is the fulfillment of a provincial government wish, to postpone the enjoyment of its benefits for another year. The sooner the town has a vocational school, the sooner the square pegs will be kept out of round holes. Our high school board has shown vision in determining to go ahead with this project, and it will be unfortunate if it is to be unnecessarily delayed for a year. We are thinking of the boys now in high school and those starting this coming year.

MITCH CONGRATULATES TWEED NEWS

Marking the completion of a half century in the service of its community, the Tweed News publishes a 32-page edition. That is a considerable undertaking for a weekly newspaper office and we know that the staff sighed with relief as the last section came off the press. The News is really 51 years old, but put off its anniversary number one year to coincide with the town's old home week. One advertiser says: "It is our sincere belief that the steady growth of the Quinn store has been due in no small way, to the constant use of the advertising columns of The Tweed News." In a message to the News, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn says of the local newspaper: "With its intimate glimpse of local life, it breathes the atmosphere of the fireside, and performs a function which no other agency supplies."

JOHN WESLEY'S REVOLUTION

The preaching and teaching of John Wesley, following his conversion 200 years ago, so changed the people of England that they avoided such a catastrophe as befell France in the French revolution. This interesting statement was made at Trinity United church on Sunday evening by Rev. W. E. Wright. The French revolution was a catastrophe only insofar as France might have accomplished the same ends without bloodshed. Without any similar social revolution Britain has achieved as much democracy and socialism as France, and perhaps more.

No Oplate Wanted

Mr. Wright said that John Wesley found Godliness at a low ebb, at just such a low ebb as it is today, he said. He prayed and hoped that some such change might come over us today as came to the people of Wesley's day and prevented a "French revolution." When Marx said that "religion is the opiate of the people," he meant that religion put people to sleep, kept them contented with poor economic conditions, and was therefore the enemy of socialism. As we understand the Sunday evening speaker, he was not looking for religion that would prevent revolutions by making people satisfied, but religion that would move people to remedy conditions without open revolution. He said: "Reform movements are the fruit of a spiritual awakening within men."

Adversity's Uses

There are reform movements in this country which must be recognized as authentic expressions of spiritual awakening. Such movements are to be found within Canada's three major political parties, Conservative, Liberal and C. C. F. There are within both of the old parties individuals and groups who are true reformers, men who are moved not by their own economic hard luck but by true idealism to do what they can to make this a better world, men who would try to wipe out poverty, insecurity, lack of opportunity and ignorance. We say "not by their own economic hard luck," but in many instances it may have taken some hard luck to let us see a vision of what our country might and will be. "Sweet are the uses of adversity." (We nearly spoiled this article by writing "advertising" for "adversity.")

A Reform Party

Naturally, as the newest and as an avowed reform party, the C. C. F. should contain the greatest proportion of reformers. This is no doubt true, but many people are in the C. C. F. not because of a burning idealism for "a brave new world," but because the world as it is has ground them so hard that they feel that any change would be for the better. In other words, they are not all true socialists with a well-reasoned belief in public ownership and cooperation, any more than all Conservatives have a Conservative idealism or all Liberals have a Liberal idealism. The C. C. F. group in parliament has already had a great influence on federal legislation and on the policies of the older parties.

A Duty

Changes must come in our economic and social system. Whether we belong to any of these parties or none, we should all of us work and talk for a better world. We should be dissatisfied with conditions as they are, and we should each of us try to formulate a plan for something better. If we do not believe that public ownership, the extension of social services, and the co-operative movement hold hope for a better world, we should have alternative proposals. It does not matter so much what parties we belong to, or don't belong to, but it does matter that we should have progressive ideas. When the people are ready for changes, changes will come, regardless of what government is in power and regardless of the objections of the minority who may feel, although probably mistakenly, that they will be injured.

Nobody Really Hurt

On the long view, it seems difficult to think of anyone in our country who would be really injured by changes which made possible greater educational opportunities for the masses, which enabled the farmer to enjoy the cultural side of life just a little bit more, which gave the workingman a little more security and the best hospital and medical treatment available, which made the prevention of illness and disease more of a state concern. Canada would be much more of a socialist state than she is today. Perhaps there would be little private industry. Those who now manage industry would still manage industry. They would have better educated, healthier, more contented, more productive employees, and less worries. There wouldn't be the same opportunities for wealthy people to double their fortunes, but we think that wealthy people and poor people would all be much happier in a more democratic world.

National Railways

So much is being said about our railways, for instance. The railways, as operated at present, are pulling us under. Some people would unify the railways and tear up thousands of miles of road that are not paying their way. If our railways were owned by the government, and all our citizens were productively employed, we would have enough traffic for all our railways. There would not only be a greater volume of commercial traffic, but every boy and girl as a part of his or her high school education in citizenship would receive a coast-to-coast trip, and Canadian workingmen would be enabled to travel within our own country as they are not able to travel today. We can well imagine a day when such conditions obtain in both our own country and in the United States and cheap travelling privileges will be exchanged. This and similar educational and recreational benefits will be made possible by the elimination of unemployment, the cutting down of sickness, by better education and technical training, greater efficiency and productiveness on the part of workmen through greater contentment, through the elimination of wasteful duplication and competition and unified and better management of industry. Every Canadian should see Niagara and the St. Lawrence. Every Canadian should see the tides of Fundy and the beauties of the Atlantic seaboard. Every Canadian should see the Canadian Rockies.

SUNDAY SPORTS

Profit-sport is frowned upon by the Midland Free Press. Midland baseball promoters have been talking of Sunday games to put the game on a paying basis. Arguments against sport for which admission is charged are well founded. The man who first thought of the sabbath, of one day of rest in seven, had such a flash of divine inspiration that it is well said that God gave man the sabbath. The sabbath is one of the most secure of our institutions and yet it was given to us by ancient folk who dreamed not of our labor-saving machinery. As Dr. Alexander told The Era last week, the sabbath is sure to be kept but keeping it holy is another matter.

Keeping Sabbath Holy

Many of us will differ in our interpretation of keeping the sabbath holy. It certainly seems sensible that so far as possible every Sunday activity should be avoided which keeps other people commercially employed. But it would not be possible for a restaurant, or a hotel, or a steamship company, or a railway company, not to employ people on Sunday. Nor does it seem possible or reasonable to avoid motoring on Sunday—which means that gas-station employees and traffic constables must work on Sundays. They should, of course, get their sabbath some other day in the week. Doctors too must work on Sunday.

Commercial Sport Taboo

There is, however, a great difference between sport where there is an admission charged or a collection taken and sport which is played for the sake of the game only. We see no objection to Sunday afternoon golf or swimming, provided it does not interfere with the player's attendance at church or prevent other members of the family attending church or Sunday-school. People who do not attend church anyway are just as well employed in a good outdoor sport as in gossiping or motoring.

A Recreation Director

We think too that eventually there will be a greater effort to provide outdoor Sunday recreation for young people who cannot play golf or haven't cars to go away visiting friends or swimming. It would be a good thing to reduce greatly the amount of Sunday motoring, for the highways on Sundays are too crowded for safety. Any outdoor sport is, we think, a suitable Sunday afternoon activity. The time will come when Newmarket will have a community recreation director, who would organize and take charge of Sunday sports, making them a means to teach sportsmanship and character.

The Common Round

By Isabel Inglis Colville

CATASTROPHES

"Mew, Merow, Mleow!" crescendo and accelerating, came the sound up to me, as I lay in my bed with a nicely rising temperature and a throat which I wished belonged to some one else—not a friend.

"Oh, what can have happened? Why doesn't some one come and tell me, if one of the cats has been killed or has killed another?" I whispered over and over to myself.

Presently I heard a door slam, then a laugh, and lay back to wait with what patience I might for the appearance of the man of the house, with my orange juice and an explanation.

I could hear him still chuckling as he came, and—"You missed it," said he, grinning like a Cheshire cat.

"Missed what—who got hurt?" I questioned.

"Ruffie," said he. "She flew out to chase the dog, and did you know she's learned to open the screen door? Well, she was in such a hurry to get it open and come in again that she got partly in; then the door closed on her tail; this was bad enough, but Freckles, who hates her and is too frightened to face her, saw her chance. She grabbed Ruffie's tail and hung on and bit it, till I came along."

"Your cats have all gone crazy since you were sick," announced mother, coming in at this moment.

"Freckles has just landed poor wee Buttercup in the coal bin and Puff was tearing round with Spot in her mouth, and now I can't find either of them."

"Oh dear," I moaned. "Why have I to be lying helpless here, and murders and kidnapping going on in Canada?"

"Well, we wish you were downstairs," chorused my family in unison, and departed to try and bring order out of chaos and eat their suppers with what enjoyment they might.

For a few moments, all was peaceful and quiet; I sipped my orange juice and enjoyed its coolness and the delightful coldness of the compress on my head, while I thought of the kindness of the friends who had sent fruit and flowers to cheer me.

I was just having a lovely thought about the beauty of friendship and wishing I could say it as well as feel it, when "ding-a-ling" went the telephone, "bang" went some one at the door, and "hiss-spt!" went a cat or cats.

This was too much! I could feel my temperature rising to points where it would have shattered any well brought up thermometer, and I jumped as if some one had given me a hypodermic. But before I could give vent to my feelings in a shriek, into my room burst what looked like a large sunflower, pursued by an animated skein of grey wool.

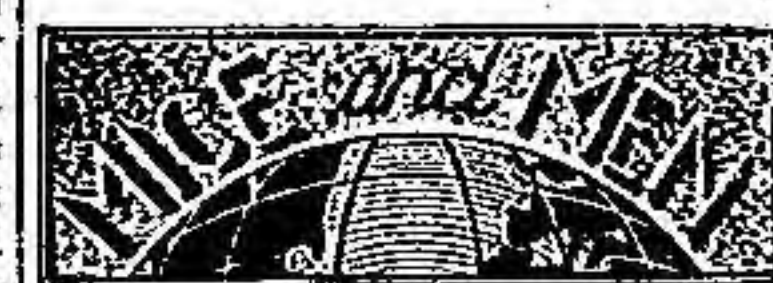

Over my bed they tore, with no more regard for me than if I had been a door mat. Growls, hisses and bunches of fur, marked their cyclonic progress, as I wrung my hands in futile despair, while my better half roared with what success he might into the telephone, and mother tried to be placid and pleasant to the kind inquirer at the door.

Then the front door closed, the telephone duet ended and mother and my better half held a council of war which, must have had good results, for a sudden silence reigned.

"We found Buttercup and Spot hidden behind a great lump of coal," announced mother, a little later, "and at present, Sir Walter, taking advantage of his two weeks seniority, is leading Buttercup a bad life, but perhaps it will keep them all busy looking after the kittens and anyway I can't stand much more of this," concluded the harassed lady.

"We've never seen Skippy nor Goldie since you went to bed," she went on, "so dear knows what's happened to them."

"They'll show up, when you come downstairs again," consoled friend husband, "and in the meantime let's think about something nice and peaceful, like the new rose-bushes or an eruption of Vesuvius—so we thought!"

YOUNG CHIPS RECEIVES AN UNNECESSARY SHOCK

BY RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"I think you ought to speak to them," stated Merry Chickadee to her husband, Young Chips.

"Speak to whom, my dear?" inquired her spouse.

"Why, those Nighthawks, of course," replied Merry. "I didn't mind it so much at first, but since the babies were born and I've had so much work and worry, my nerves aren't what they once were."

"Quite right, they're not, but I didn't know that the Nighthawks were really bothering you," said Young Chips.

"Well, they are," maintained Merry. "It wouldn't be so bad if they just did their racketting around at night, as they're supposed to do, but they keep it up all day, too. It seems to me that every time I put my head out of the nest, one of them zooms down right past me. Why, this morning, one came so close, with that awful roar that their wings make, that I was almost scared out of my skin. I think it's inconsiderate of them to do it so much. Other people haven't time to indulge in crazy dare-devil stunts all day and night like they do."

"Well, of course, they are busy catching flies and insects a good deal of the time that they are flying around, you know," said Young Chips.

"Oh, dear, there are the children calling. I must get back to the nest," exclaimed Merry, and she hurried back into her home.

"I think I'll just cross the field and see what Bobolink has to say this morning," decided Young Chips. "It won't take a minute."

"Hello, young fellow," hailed the pretty yellow and black and white Bobolink. "I suppose you're out hunting for food for hungry mouths."

"That's certainly what I ought to be doing, anyway," said Young Chips. "Is your nest built yet?"

"Yes, we've just finished it," stated the Bobolink. "It's very nice too. It's right here on the ground in this clover field, but you'd never find it unless I showed you and I'm not going to show you."

"Jumping June bugs," shrieked Young Chips suddenly. "What's that I see on the wire over there? Quite a big bird and very pretty. He's grey, with a black tail and black wings, with white markings, and a black band through the face. He reminds me of someone I don't

Strong Egg Markets Forecast For Next Fall and Winter

Experts May Raise Egg Prices

Prepare to Cash in on the Profits

These Bray Pullets Laid at 4 1/4 Months

ORDER BRAY'S Day-Old or Started Chicks NOW!

According to the Department of Agriculture's "Egg and Poultry Market Report," of May 13th, there is a possibility that Canada may have to import eggs next fall. The report states: "If the exports continue at the present rate, as there is reason to believe they will, it would not be surprising if next fall, Canada was obliged to import some eggs for domestic consumption. . . . If such a condition should come about, it would insure a very strong position in the Canadian egg market for the next twelve months."

If, as the Report states, there is reason to believe that exports of fresh eggs will continue at the present rate, then you should be prepared to cash in on the profits next fall and winter. Start getting prepared today. Buy the kind of chicks that will grow fast, lay early and lay plenty of big eggs when they do start to lay. The Bray chick does the trick and here's the proof:

Mrs. H. M. Bigger of St. Catharines, Ont., bought 433 Bray Extra-Profile pullet chicks last year. She lost only 12 chicks and had only 20 cockerels in the lot. In just 4 1/4 months her pullets started to lay. At 5 months the 401 pullets were laying at the rate of 200 eggs per day. And at 6 months they hit an average of 210 eggs per day. They weren't small eggs, either, because at 6 months, 70 eggs out of every 100 graded A-large.

Bray chicks did the trick for Mrs. Bigger and you can depend on them to give you real results, too. Order Bray day-old chicks today. Or, better still, buy Bray started pullets. Get your order in for Bray started pullets while the supply lasts. Bray chicks in your brooder house may mean dollars to you next fall. Don't miss this opportunity.

POLICE COURT TWO FINED $100 FOR HAVING BEER

Pleading guilty to a charge of having liquor in an illegal place, Charles Judge, King township, was fined $100 and costs, or three months and took the alternative jail term, in police court on Tuesday forenoon.

"On the night of May 7, we went into a service station at Oak Ridges belonging to Fred Judge," testified Sergeant Sydney Barracough. "We had a search warrant which I showed. In a corner we found a case containing six full quarts of ale. There were a number of men sitting around in the room. Fred Judge told us the liquor wasn't his and Charles admitted it belonged to him."

Counsel for accused, C. H. Howard, Toronto, asked for the minimum penalty, as this was a first offence. The charge against Fred Judge was dismissed.

Convicted on a similar charge of having liquor in an illegal place, Frank Bell, King township, was also fined $100 and costs or three months. Bell will remain in jail until he can raise the necessary money to pay the fine, the magistrate stated.

"County Constable Watt, Sergeant Barracough and I sat in our car, which was parked on the old car line behind the Halliwell Service Station, on Yonge St., run by Fred Judge," testified Constable Aubrey Fleury. "We noticed a man come out of the station, take something from under an old car and start off over the field carrying something under his arm. Constable Barracough and myself went after him and he started to run."

"When I finally caught him I saw that it was Bell and he had six quarts of ale in a carton," continued Constable Fleury. "He asked me what I was going to do and I said we were going to search his house. He told me I didn't need a search warrant as any liquor there was in his wife's name. He said he was taking the ale to hide it for the boys until Sunday."

"Was the liquor that Bell was carrying purchased by Judge?" questioned Mr. Howard, defence counsel.

"No," answered Constable Fleury. "Didn't Bell tell you he was hiding it at the request of Judge?"

"No,"

Constable Barracough corroborated the evidence as given by Constable Fleury.

"Did Bell tell you that the beer was given to him to hide?"

"Yes, but he wouldn't say who gave it to him," answered Constable Barracough.

Constable Watt stated he kept Bell in the car after they caught him, while the other two officers went into the service station.

Mr. Howard then put in the defence. Russell Moore, of the Liquor Control Board, Toronto, was the first to testify.

A slip was produced by Mr. Moore from a brewery warehouse in Toronto showing that three dozen quarts of ale had been purchased and delivered to Charles Judge.

"I arrived at the service station about 11:15," stated Frank Bell. "I got a package of tobacco, then I noticed a carton of beer. There were several men around, as they usually gather there in the evening. I told Judge he would get into trouble having the beer around. He said he would see about that, but that there was another case behind the oil house which he wished I would take back to the swamp and hide. I started out with the case and was caught by Fleury. I disclaimed ownership of the liquor."

"You have been in trouble before over liquor in this court, haven't you?" questioned Jos. Vale, noting for the crown.

"Yes," answered Bell.

"That was just recently, wasn't it?"

"Yes, but at my own home."

"Were you taking this liquor home?"

"No, I wasn't taking it home, as I live in another direction."

Bell was fined $100 on one charge and $100 on another in the court here last month.

"I claim ownership of the beer which I purchased in Toronto," stated Charles Judge. "I took a dozen and a half bottles to the station to treat the men, but I left the half dozen bottles outside. When Bell came I asked him to take away the bottles outside and I would get rid of the rest. Bell didn't have any beer to drink."

Victor Alfred testified he was in the station at the time and heard Judge ask Bell to take away the liquor.

"I have gone to considerable expense to get independent witnesses to show the beer really belonged to Judge," stated Mr. Howard.

"The man knew the risk he was running," said the magistrate.

"He shouldn't be penalized for doing something for Judge," answered Mr. Howard. "His record speaks badly for him, but it shouldn't go against him."

"There will be a conviction," ordered the magistrate. "The fine will be $100 and costs or three months."

"Can I have time to raise the money?" asked Bell.

"On this charge I can't allow any time," answered the magistrate. "You will have to go to jail until you can raise the money."

"I saw this car zig-zagging along the road and gave chase," testified Constable Dunham. "I finally stopped the car at Bond Lake but it had been travelling at a speed of about 50 miles per hour. The driver had been drinking but was not intoxicated."

"How long have you driven a car?" questioned the magistrate.

"Fifteen years," answered Mr. Yake.

A charge of not paying wages due, to the amount of $85.80, laid against Leo Johnson, Newtonbrook Motors, by Peter Sluse, was ordered to be paid within 16 days, or a jail sentence of 20 days will be imposed.

"I started to work for Johnson last December," stated Mr. Sluse. "I am a body and fender man."

"What was your pay?" questioned Jos. Vale acting for the crown.

"Eighteen dollars a week."

"How much did Johnson owe you at the end of December?"

"Eighteen dollars."

"How long did you work for Johnson?"

"Until the end of March, which made a total of 18 weeks. I only got paid in part each week."

Mr. Sluse claimed $91, but the magistrate took off $4.20 for a paint job Sluse had done to his car with Johnson's time and material, and $1 for a cleaning job. Johnson was ordered by the magistrate to pay Sluse $85.80 and was given 16 days to pay it.

Here is a man who woke up every morning with a dull headache. Then Kruschen transformed his days. Read his letter:—

Headaches can nearly always be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. ## In Memoriam

Lepard—In loving memory of a dear wife, Mary Lepard, who passed away June 2, 1936.

In our home she is fondly remembered.
Sweet memories cling to her name,
Those who loved her in life sincerely,
Still love her in death just the same.
Lovingly remembered by husband.

Wright—In ever loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mary Ann Wright, Queensville, Ont., who was called to rest May 30, 1937. What would we give her hand to clasp
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be?
But some sweet day we'll meet again,
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In Heaven—that happy life.
Husband and family.

LOCKERS TOPPLE
ON N. H. S. BOYS

Two Newmarket high school students escaped serious injury on Tuesday, when a row of 12 steel lockers in the boys' basement toppled over. Allan Rottler of Keswick was pinned beneath the lockers, injuring his shoulder blade and forehead and receiving bad bruises, while Douglas Chalkin of Bogartown had his leg caught under the lockers and was bruised about the knees.

The boys were alone in the basement at the time of the accident and were tipping the lockers in an attempt to get a vaulting pole, which had fallen behind them, when the weight of the lockers caused them to fall, with the lockers on top of them. Their shouts brought the assistance of teachers and students. They were attended by Dr. D. H. Guy, who found that no bones had been broken.

Tuberculosis Can Be Prevented, W.I. Hears

Hospital Superintendent Asks For Continued Support

WOULD X-RAY STUDENTS

"Tuberculosis is preventable," was the keynote of an address given by Miss M. E. Wilkinson, superintendent of the Queen Mary Hospital, Weston, to the Aurora Women's Institute meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Granger on Thursday last week.

"The Queen Mary Hospital is that part of the Toronto Hospital for Consumptives where tubercular children between the ages of six and 16, are cared for," Miss Wilkinson explained. "At present there are 52 children in this hospital and 500 more in the other buildings."

"It has been an eye-opener to me to go to the Toronto Hospital and see how prevalent tuberculosis is and how much it is costing this country. In Ontario there are 13 sanatoria, each of which is building an addition. Each has a waiting list. Altogether, there are 4,000 beds available."

"Tuberculosis has been a problem since before Christ and we are spending more than ever before. In Ontario last year, about $3,000,000 was spent for hospitalization of consumptives," the speaker stated.

"Hospitalization costs $2.49 per person per day. The municipality from which the patient comes pays $1.50 and the province pays 57 cents towards this cost. This leaves a deficit of 42 cents per person per day, or $153 per person per year."

"The present legislation being considered by the provincial government will not benefit the sanatoria. All the province is going to do is to take over the municipalities' share of $1.50 per day."

"Last year the deficit at Weston was $35,000. These deficits are met by the sale of Christmas seals, by bequests and by donations."

"Tuberculosis is such a long, drawn-out disease that few people can afford to pay for their hospitalization."

DISCONTINUE CHURCH EVENING SERVICES

There will be no evening service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church next Sunday, and the Sunday evening services will be discontinued until autumn.

talization. Only 24 of the 550 patients at Weston are helping to pay their own bills. These 24 pay only what their municipalities would otherwise pay. This means that the sanatoria are no better off than they would be if their patients paid nothing."

Miss Wilkinson attributed the prevalence of tuberculosis to the difficulty of early diagnosis and popular ignorance of the disease and to the way in which it is spread.

"No child is born with tuberculosis," Miss Wilkinson stated. "It is spread only by direct contact."

The methods by which infection might be prevented, as suggested by Miss Wilkinson, were: prohibiting people from kissing children on the lips; insisting that children wash their hands before eating; legislation requiring all immigrants to be x-rayed; legislation requiring all high school students to be x-rayed; legislation allowing a doctor to keep a consumptive in a hospital.

"At present a doctor can order a consumptive to enter a hospital, but cannot order him to stay there," the speaker said.

"There are three early symptoms of tuberculosis," Miss Wilkinson said, in answer to a question. "Fatigue, loss of weight, and lowered resistance to disease, particularly colds."

She suggested that the Institute have regular talks on tuberculosis included in its programs. We all need to become "tuberculosis conscious," she said.

"The Aurora branch of the Women's Institute has contributed for many years to the support of a bed at Weston," Miss Wilkinson concluded. "We would be very sorry to see your name removed from that list."

Action For Completion Of Highway Urged By King

County And Province Both Urged To Take Action

Declaring that the road would "result in the greatest benefit to our ratepayers," King township council asked the province to take over the remaining gap of 36 miles in the central Ontario highway, at a meeting at Kettleby on Saturday.

This stretch of the proposed new highway, as yet unannounced by the government, is on highway No. 12 (near Port Perry), to Schomberg.

The resolution declared that the proposed highway would benefit the province, bringing additional tourist traffic and increasing government revenues.

Another resolution asked that York county should assume "that portion of the central Ontario highway running easterly from Schomberg to Newmarket."

The county has assumed two alternative routes, one from Aurora and the other from Newmarket to the easterly York county boundary. The plan is that the province should choose between these routes and that the county should improve the other.

The clerk was authorized to write off $63.70 in tax arrears against the name of Mahel Hulme, as the money had been paid in and turned over to the Hydro.

ABOUT TOWN

CANADIAN UNITY

About twice a week, for the past month, we have been receiving mail from F. D. L. Smith Services. Mr. Smith has evidently got himself a job writing publicity to defend mortgage and trust companies who are threatened with decreased income in their Alberta territory, if Premier Aberhart has his way.

At first the thought that the poor mortgage companies needed helping served merely to amuse us. We laughed until our sides ached. Mr. Smith kept at us with his mimeographed sheets of propaganda, however, and we have begun to weary of the jest. The pain in our sides is now a pain in the neck.

This pain became particularly acute last week, when Mr. Smith quoted Rev. Dr. J. G. Inkster, of Knox Presbyterian church, Toronto, to support his plea that Ottawa disallow the Aberhart acts. "As I read them, the acts are subversive of good morality and good religion. They are contrary to the word of God and to common honesty."

As we read Rev. Dr. Inkster, he is being made a tool of. We can understand F. D. L. Smith going to bat for the mortgage companies—he gets paid for it. But we can see no reason why religion should need to play hand-maiden to the financial interests.

If the minister has fulfilled his mission as such, he has no need to worry over his congregation's "common honesty." And we would be glad to hear Rev. Dr. Inkster quote the Bible on the subject of lending money at interest, in the manner in which it has been done in Alberta.

The London, Ontario, chamber of commerce is quoted by F. D. L. Smith Services as "subversive to the Aberhart acts as 'subversive to Canadian unity.'"

Whoops! . . . the wonder is, that anyone could put to paper so imaginative a concept as that contained in the words, "Canadian unity." The London chamber of commerce might ask Premier Patullo what he thought of Canadian unity, following the ratifying of the Japanese trade treaty. Saskatchewan might find a disconcerting word to say, too. We know Manitoba can, and has.

They might ask the maritimes. Then, to bring the subject nearer home, they might consider Quebec—and Ontario. Let's chat of separate schools and Ontario power contracts awhile, before we again mention "Canadian unity."

Canadian unity is a dream—albeit a splendid one. But up until now it has been a dream without the refreshment of sweet repose.

If we could climb out of the political gutter for a moment we might learn something. We might find that Alberta mortgages came into being when wheat was $1.50 a bushel—that payments were required when wheat was half that price—and that payments had still to be made when there was no wheat at all!

Had settlement of Alberta debts been sought by the mortgage companies in the light of "good morality and good religion"—as Rev. Dr. Inkster suggests, the London chamber of commerce would not need to concern itself with mythical dangers to mythical Canadian unity.

As it is, Aberhart seeks to levy a two per cent tax on mortgages. This would decrease income to mortgage companies. It would also ease the burden upon the farmers and make it easier for them to pay off the mortgages.

Until we have a dollar that buys as much tomorrow as it did yesterday, contracts involving the payment of money should demand "good morality and good religion" on the part of the mortgagee as well as mortgagee. If we see the name of Rev. Dr. Inkster volunteering as missionary to the mortgage companies, we will be among the first to applaud.

INCREASE SUPPLY OF TOWN'S WATER

Anticipating an increased demand for water from the town, due largely to the activities of the new industry which is establishing itself in Aurora, council has decided to put in a new well on the Billings property.

The clean-up work has been just about finished in the old match factory, and many are busy in making repairs to floors, windows, etc. Company officials expect to be bringing in some furniture next week, The Era learned.

Dressmakers, Horses, Cooks, Artists To Compete In Town

New Classes Give Added Interest In Aurora Horse Show

Both town bands will be on hand to welcome visitors to Aurora's event of the year, the annual horse show, to be held on Saturday of next week. The Agricultural Society, under whose auspices the show is held, has increased the interest in the event by enlarging the ladies' section and adding two new classes for ponies and for stallions.

The prize list shows a fine array of awards in all divisions. There will be an exhibition of ladies' work and awards will be given for exhibits of women's clothing, infants' wear, household linen, bedspreads, quilts, rugs, and aged women's work.

Awards will be given also for work in domestic science, including bread, buns, tea biscuits, cookies and small cakes, cake and pastry. Artists and candy-makers will also find rewards for their ability.

Competition For Coronation Shield Won By H. M. McKenzie

Mrs. W. R. McQuade, Norm. Johnson, Win Mixed Tournament

The coronation shield, competed for annually on May 24 at the Aurora Golf Club, went to H. M. McKenzie this year. Norman Johnson, holder of the trophy last year, paired with Mrs. W. R. McQuade to win first prize in the two-ball mixed foursome played in the afternoon.

Mrs. B. D. Gilbert and N. G. De Pencier were runners-up in the same event.

Members of York county council are expected to hold a tournament on the Aurora course about the third week in June. This event is being staged earlier this year to save the councillors from being "burned out." Last year the tournament was played at the beginning of July and a bare half-dozen survived the 105 degree blast of heat turned on by the weather man.

The course is reported to be in fine shape and more than usual interest on the part of the members is being shown this year, the secretary states.

SCHOOL NOTES

From 7:10 a.m. to 1 a.m. the next day! This just means that the entrance class (Grade VIII) was away from Aurora about 18 hours. The bus left at 7:10 Friday morning, 10 minutes late, but soon came to Toronto and Hamilton. On the way to the Falls stops were made at Stoney Creek, Niagara-On-The-Lake, Queenston Heights and the big power plant.

The whirlpool was also a place of interest. When the Falls were reached, the bus went past so that the old oil derricks and the raft stuck in the river could be seen.

Then, turning around, the bus stopped at the Falls at 5 o'clock and out poured the pupils, snapping pictures and drinking in the sights. At all of the other stopping points, the pupils were allowed to get out to look around.

On the way home another big moment arrived when Sunnyside was reached. Money slipped thick and fast into the roller-coasters, ferris wheels and merry-go-rounds and of course those places where you can buy pop, ice-cream or where a man guesses your weight, where you try your strength and where you throw darts to win a prize.

Principal J. G. McDonald and Dr. C. J. Davins warned the pupils to be back to the bus at a certain time, but they were half an hour late and because of this the Sunnyside stop may be cancelled for the entrance class of 1939. When the bus pulled into Aurora at 1:15 a.m. it was a weary lot that made for their homes and

REV. BYRON SNELL DIES SUDDENLY

John F. Clarke, who came to give a talk to the Aurora Service Club last Friday evening, spoke in the high school auditorium to the grades in the high school which were not taking exams, and grades V, VI and VII of the public school were present to hear him talk about trees and flowers. Colored slides were shown of both curious and stately trees. A few slides showing bright and gay flowers that make any garden a beauty spot, were also enjoyed.

Following their 15-0 win over Richmond Hill here last week, the Aurora high school softball team journeyed to the Hill on Tuesday afternoon, to nose out their opponents 12-11.

Trevor Graham is making a fine job of pitching for the Aurora team and "Nip" Armstrong is doing the catching. Harold Nelly, George Armstrong and Paul Knowles decorate the bases. Howard Follitt is shortstop and Will Walker are out in the field.

In the second Richmond Hill game Sam Carlyle went in for Walker and Bill Kerr substituted for Preston.

REUNION BANQUET IS MUCH ENJOYED

The old boys' reunion banquet sponsored by the Aurora Service Club, was one of the happiest affairs of the season. S. C. Taylor, "old boy" mayor, acted as master of ceremonies.

Deputy-Reeve C. A. Malloy welcomed the visitors, and a toast to the old boys, proposed by Mayor Dr. C. R. Boulding, was responded to by Fred R. Marshall of Toronto.

Rev. William Johnston, of Toronto, delighted those present with reminiscences of a boyhood spent in Ireland. John F. Clark of the provincial department of agriculture, also spoke, and later in the evening gave an illustrated address in Mechanics' hall.

Aurora Softballers Beat Schomberg, 8-7

"Wiff" White Leads Scoring For Aurora Ball Squad

PLAY HERE TUESDAY

An enthusiastic crowd of Aurora softball fans were given their first opportunity to see the local squad in action when the Schomberg team visited the town park on Tuesday night. And they saw plenty of action.

Although Schomberg ripped out 11 hits to the Aurorans' seven, the locals, by a bit of walking to first base, were able to chalk up eight runs to take a one-run margin over their rivals. K. Ellison, on the mound for Schomberg, struck out 12, while "Nugget" Shore fanned four for the Aurorans.

The Aurorans bunched their hits to better advantage, however, and "Wiff" White's three-bagger, coming when the bases were filled in the second inning, gave the local team a fine start. The locals looked better in the field, too.

Schomberg loaded the bases in the first inning and a single from J. Skinner brought in T. Sutton for their only tally. W. Heaney, leading the Aurora batting list, went out on a fly ball and Shropshire and Helmsky fanned.

The Ellison brothers both hit safely for Schomberg but a smart double play in the infield held them scoreless. Then the parade started. T. Heaney walked and Shore bunted safely. Shukta and Yakes fanned and Hunter walked to fill the bases.

White brought all three men in on a nice hit and slithered round to third base in the resulting confusion. He came home when Schomberg's catcher, T. Sutton, failed to hang on to one, and Aurora took a 4-1 lead.

T. Sutton went out on a fly to Waite, Cutler on a fly to Hunter and B. Sutton on a fly to T. Heaney. Shropshire came to bat for the Aurorans and went out on a fly. Helmsky bunted safely and T. Heaney and Shore fanned.

In the fourth inning, Skinner got to third, but Forman went out at first, thanks to Yakes, and the Ellison brothers went out before Schomberg could score. Shukta, Aurora catcher, hit to first, stole second, and went to third on Hunter's single which came after Yakes had fanned.

White again came to bat and rapped out a two-bagger that brought in both men. "Ninny" Heaney and Shropshire went out on flies, and Aurora had increased its lead 6-1.

Schomberg got its second score in the fifth inning when T. Sutton came home on a hit by Kay. Helmsky went out on a fly ball.

QUEENSVILLE IS DEFEATED 21-10

A good crowd attended the first ball game of the season in Queensville last Thursday evening, when Keswick drubbed the local boys by a score of 21 to 10. After the write-up last week, perhaps you think we should make an explanation; but no, we're not taking anything back. We still look for the boys to go places this year. The first inning lost the game for Queensville when they allowed Keswick to score 12 runs. Figure the score for yourselves.

The boys have no alibis, only that they just couldn't get going. It is hoped, however, that they don't let every team score 12 runs in the first inning on future occasions. The next home game for Queensville will be on Wednesday night, June 8, Pine Orchard will be the visiting team.

As yet, there have been no dates set for either the Virginia Jubilee Singers or the strawberry festival.

Queensville W. A. will meet on Tuesday in the church rooms. A special meeting is being planned, when several officers from the Toronto Presbytery will be guest speakers. The usual supper will be held, to which all are invited.

Mrs. James Denne had the misfortune to break her collarbone, when she fell down a flight of stairs last week. Mrs. Denne will be confined to her bed for about 6 weeks, but a splendid recovery is hoped for.

MRS. WM. HADDEN OF VIRGINIA DIES

After suffering from a long illness, Mrs. Wm. Hadden died in Peterboro hospital on Sunday night. She had been staying with her daughter, Mrs. Randall Wood, in Havelock, until about a week ago and she was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Peterboro.

Mrs. Hadden was a member of the Virginia United church, always attending whenever possible. She was in her 88th year.

She had a large boarding house for tourists in the summer months, where she will be greatly missed. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, one son and two daughters, Mabel and Angus (at home); Mrs. Randall Wood (Della) at Havelock, and also her mother, Mrs. George Arnold.

She had three sisters, Mrs. Wesley Lyons, (Gertie) of Virginia Beach; Mrs. Nelson Westlake (Edith) of Sunderland, and Mrs. Louis Mann (Mabel) of Pittsfield, U.S.A. and three brothers, Jack of Lansing, Norman and Simpson in Boston.

Sympathy is extended to all the bereaved ones in their sorrow.

The funeral took place on Wednesday at Virginia United church.

After a simple service conducted by Rev. N. S. Anderson of Sutton, the funeral cortege proceeded to Briar Hill cemetery, where the interment was made.

THE OSTREKOFF JEWELS

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

A GREAT NOVEL OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE

SYNOPSIS

Wilfred Haven, attaché of the American embassy in Petrograd, leaves the Russian capital during the 1917 Bolshevik upheaval, carrying with him the Ostrekoff family jewels, worth millions. They are to be delivered in London to Princess Elisaveta Ostrekoff as her only inheritance from her parents, who are under sentence of death by the revolutionists.

Anna Kastellane, whom Haven rescued from a Petrograd mob, accompanies him to the Polish border, where he is "kidnapped" by three Cossacks. They accompany him through a number of death-dealing adventures as far as Warsaw. There he finds Anna Kastellane, who has brought his baggage with her. He suspects the girl of being a Russian agent and partly confirms it when he sees her in conversation with Polish police and army officials. The latter make clear their wishes to obtain the jewels, but Haven outwits them. Through Anna's efforts he is able to hire a plane and she accompanies him. He awakens the next morning to find himself disarmed and the plane under the direction of two Polish army officers.

One of the officers was known to Haven and Anna Kastellane. Colonel Patinsky introduced Captain Esterhazy. Patinsky had been foiled by Haven in an attempt to obtain the jewels. Haven was an object of murderous hatred, but his diplomatic status served to protect him. He instructed Anna how to act in the event of physical encounter.

Haven overpowers Esterhazy, recovers his own revolver along with two others. The plane runs into a heavy snowstorm and is in danger of crashing. Esterhazy reveals that he and Patinsky intended to drop Haven and Anna at widely separated places after obtaining the jewels. By using their wits and nerve Haven and Anna assume the mastery.

CHAPTER 16

First Stop, Odessa

Patinsky had, at least, courage of a sort. He realized at once what had happened, when he entered the saloon, and cursed himself for not having relieved Esterhazy of his revolver. His own fingers stopped as though galvanized, as they crept toward his pocket. Unwillingly he obeyed Haven's sharply given order and raised his hands.

"This is a foolish business," he complained. "What can you possibly gain by it? We may be your prisoners, but you can do nothing without our guidance. The plane will not fly alone."

"I have just made a blunder," Haven announced, "in not shooting Esterhazy. If you give me the shadow of a cause, I am not going to repeat that mistake with you, Patinsky."

"Do not be absurd," the latter blustered, though his tone was not altogether natural. "If you kill us, you do yourselves no good and you will be in terrible trouble with the plane."

"We're wasting words," Haven observed. "Listen to me, Patinsky—and you, too, Esterhazy," he broke off, his voice ringing through the saloon. "If you try to move another inch, you'll go where I ought to have sent you ten minutes ago."

Esterhazy, who had been struggling furiously to rise, relapsed into his chair. Haven's eyes never wavered from the figure in front of him.

"Anna Kastellane," he said, "your revolver is, I suppose, fully loaded. Look in the breach to be certain and keep Esterhazy covered. You can do that?"

"I can do that," she repeated, examining the gun before she swung around in her chair. "I hope that he moves. I should be a happier woman even now if I had killed him."

"Shoot if he stirs an inch," Haven enjoined. "Keep both your hands flat on the table, Esterhazy, until I give the word. Now, Colonel Patinsky, you are listening?"

"I am listening," was the cautious reply.

"Take off your outside leather coat. See that your fingers don't stray one inch beyond the buttons. Remember, I'm watching—watching even your thoughts. I'm only waiting for an opportunity to shoot."

Patinsky had evidently no intention of allowing him to do so. He took off his heavy sheepskin-lined leather coat and let it fall to the floor, exactly according to instructions.

"You are in rather too dangerous a position to tell lies," Haven continued. "Where do you keep your gun?"

"In my jacket pocket—the jacket I am wearing," Patinsky replied. "You can see the muzzle sticking out."

Haven nodded. He could discern a faint glitter of metal in the direction which the other had indicated.

"Now listen very carefully," he went on, "because your life depends upon your not making a mistake. Lower your left hand, draw your gun out of your pocket by the muzzle and throw it on the table. From the fact that you are carrying it in that fashion I conclude that it is at safety. Don't snatch now! Very good. Very correctly done, Patinsky," he added, as with a crash of metal, the revolver fell upon the table. "Anna Kastellane."

"Well?"

"Concentrate upon Esterhazy. Don't let your eyes wander for a moment. I am going to search Patinsky."

"If Captain Esterhazy moves as much as a finger," was the deliberate assurance, "he will give me the opportunity I am hoping for!"

Haven lowered his revolver, took a quick step forward and seized Patinsky's arm. The latter made no resistance and submitted himself to an extensive search.

"Very good," Haven approved as he brought the matter to an end. "Now you can go and sit with your friend Esterhazy at that table and we can have a little conversation."

"I have been outside in the freezing cold and I want a drink," Patinsky declared. "May I ring for Olav or will you?"

"I will in a minute," Haven promised. "Anna Kastellane, please get up and move to one of the chairs behind—the one nearest the window. Good. Now look at the window by your side. There is a top slot about three inches wide which opens if you draw those two brass catches together and pull."

She tugged for a moment in vain, then suddenly the narrow pane slid back and the place was filled with the roar of the wind. Haven picked up the revolvers from the table before him and handed them to her.

"Out with them," he enjoined. She hesitated.

"Is it wise?" she ventured. "It is wise," he assured her. "Unarmed, I can deal with any of these men, but they have the type of brain I don't trust. They'd wheedle these guns out of any hiding place we could think of if we left them to it. Out with them!"

Anna obeyed. One after the other the three weapons slid into black space, after which she closed the window and Haven rang the bell. There was a look of dark fury on Patinsky's face. Esterhazy was still a little dazed. Olav made shambling entrance. He seemed more than ever like an animal from the frozen regions, but from those two slits where his eyes lay hidden came still that uneasy boding light.

"Order what you like," Haven invited, "and I shouldn't advise you," he added to Patinsky, "to go on making those signs to that poor brute of a steward. I took his gun away half an hour ago. It went out the window with the rest."

"Bring tea and brandy, bread and ham," Patinsky ordered sulkily.

"For everyone," Haven added. "And listen, Olav. There has been a change of owners on this plane. It belongs to me now. You will obey my orders and mine only. Do you understand?"

The Finn looked toward Esterhazy and muttered something in a quite incomprehensible dialect.

"You understand, Olav?" Haven insisted, tapping him on the shoulder. "I am the master here and the only one. For example, I think I've searched the plane pretty well, but if I see another man handling a gun, I shall shoot him on sight."

"There is no other gun," Olav muttered.

"Go and get the things Colonel Patinsky ordered and bring enough for everyone," Haven instructed him.

The man disappeared. Haven pulled out his map and studied it for a moment.

"Patinsky," he said, "I'm going to ask you a question which Esterhazy has already answered. If your reply coincides, well, we shall at least know where we are. If Esterhazy has lied, trouble may ensue. Where are we bound for? What is our next stop?"

"The Divinoff Marshes," Patinsky replied.

"Quite correct," Haven agreed. "I am glad to see that you have a loud-speaking communicator there. Go to it and tell your pilot to change his course a few degrees southward and make for Odessa."

"Odessa!" Anna Kastellane exclaimed in consternation.

"Odessa is at least a seaport with an exceedingly mixed population," Haven pointed out. "You have answered one question truthfully, Patinsky," he continued, looking across the aisle. "Let me try you with another. How much farther can we fly without more oil and petrol?"

"Patinsky knows nothing about these matters," Esterhazy intervened. "He only served in the air force one year and that a long time ago. You had better ask me these questions. We can go for another 400 miles if the wind gets no stronger. I stocked the plane and I know what she can do to a dozen miles."

"Very well," Haven assented. "I will make you the responsible person. Can we reach Odessa?"

"If we change our course at once we can reach Odessa by early morning," Esterhazy pronounced.

"The flying ground is nine miles from the city, but there is always communication."

"Have the course changed at once," Haven directed.

Esterhazy promptly obeyed. Haven had certainly acquired some sort of mind control over these two men, for they never even exchanged glances when Esterhazy left his place to perform his mission.

"Odessa will probably provide you with a funeral, at any rate," the latter remarked, as he resumed his seat. "Those marshes—hundreds and hundreds of miles of them—are unpleasant. One hears of cultures there, of reptiles born and bred in the mud who never leave their homes. A Russian peasant now and then is a treat to them. A young American like you would be a feast. I was against abandoning you there. I suggested a revolver shot and a long dive. The general, however, seems to have taken a dislike to you."

MISS FERGUSON TALKS ON NATURE

Mrs. Rollings' mother, Mrs. Peter Clark of Uxbridge, is resting for a time at the home of Mrs. Rollings. It is regretted that Mrs. Clark's health has serious aspects and friends hope for a permanent recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Eaton are home again from their trip to Europe, and are in residence at the bungalow at Eaton Hall Farm.

Miss Margaret Robertson, housekeeper for Mrs. Eaton, has left on a trip to England. It is suspected that this means also a visit to Scotland for Miss Robertson, as her name implies, is as Scotch as the hatter. "Wi' a rale Scotch tongue in her head!"

Mrs. George Hately returned from York county hospital on Sunday with her wee baby daughter, Miss White (Bride Ederer) and Miss Niles walked to All Saints' church for service on Sunday, and Miss Sills, though Anglican, attended Eversley Presbyterian church. As her grandfather was Dr. Muir, a Scotch Presbyterian, she wished to hear again the good old psalms and paraphrases as she heard them in her younger days. These ladies were at "Scots Wha Hae" over the weekend.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fairhall (nee Lauretta Follitt) on the birth of a daughter on May 29, at Dryden hospital. Their home is at Eaton Rugby in Algoma.

On Sunday the two sisters of Mrs. Fairhall, Vernona and Wilda Follitt, and Ray Edmunds, were home at Hillcrest Farm, when the news of the arrival of this new niece came over the wire.

On Thursday a funeral procession motored through King to the cemetery. It was the funeral of Mrs. Herman Heiglestein of Bright, Ont. Rev. Mr. Heiglestein married Bessie Marshall, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Marshall of Eversley. She passed away in the hospital, at the time of the birth of her son. The late Mrs. Heiglestein, Beryl Alwinna Hill, also passed away after an illness of eight months. Sincere sympathy goes out to the bereaved minister and family.

Temperanceville Young People's Union held their closing banquet on Friday night. This correspondent would like to record the very splendid work this group has done, and of the high order of the banquet, as far as eats were concerned and of the entertainment. The very capable president, Millie Umehara, with the guest speaker on her left and Mae Harman on her right, presided. Miss Umehara and Miss Harman were the winners of the shield for debate. The final debate was at King City two weeks ago.

Aubrey Lloyd led the sing song splendidly and the singing was delightful. Mildred Follitt sang beautifully two bright selections and Alfred Barker of King sang in very splendid style three tenor solos with Mrs. Ward accompanying. These two singers had not their medals on, but were well worthy of their recently acquired honors.

The guest speaker, Miss A. A. Ferguson, gave a nature talk, relating nature to life, which was well received. Miss Vera Hunter of Laakay, the very capable president of Centre Presbyterian North Y.P.U., gave a talk of interest about that work.

Mr. Umehara, father of the president, and an honored citizen, gave a very splendid talk on character, and Mr. Westcott, pastor of the church and Mr. Frisby, teacher of the school, both spoke.

Altogether, it was a delightful occasion.

FIGURES IN A BOOK?

What gives rise to a loan?

"Credit can only be issued against real assets... The amount of credit must always be limited to the amount of free money..."

That was written by one of the greatest of Socialists—by the late Viscount Snowden of Ickornshaw, Philip Snowden, in 1935—little more than two years ago.

Few stood so long or so resolutely in the forefront of public controversy, or aroused such fierce opposition by vigour of opinion or severity of tongue—and none passed to his rest having earned greater public respect than Viscount Snowden.

His career was a triumph of sturdy British character. He took an unpopular course during the Great War, but later became one of his country's great figures, standing firmly for his convictions and for soundness in the financial structure of Great Britain.

His words quoted above apply to Canadian banking today with all the force with which he applied them that day to banking in England. The Canadian banking system is a British system, adjusted from time to time to fit the needs of a developing nation in the changing scene of this new world.

Credit can only be issued against actual assets. That is as true today as ever. You cannot create credit by writing figures in a book. You cannot make loans regardless of deposits, collateral or repayment; then write the loans up with a fountain pen as figures in a book labelled "Deposits" and lend them over and over.

If you could, then bankers in any country would need no more than a fountain pen to prevent bank failures.

During the last ten fiscal years Canada's chartered banks have paid more than $397,000,000 in interest on deposits. If they could create deposits by the magic process of writing figures in a book, they could have saved that $397,000,000!

And if banks could lend ten times the amount of their deposits, collecting interest each time, bank profits would become a national scandal, dividends would be paid in astronomical figures, people would be selling all they had to buy bank shares, and there would be a land office rush on at Ottawa for bank charters.

But what are the facts?

Bank profits last year averaged less than half of one per cent, on total assets—a lower margin than that on which any other class of business, corporate or individual, can succeed.

SEE MOUNT ALBERT
IN TULIP TIME

By ELIZABETH LEER

It is tulip time in Mount Albert now. Yellow and pink hyacinth bow; Rose and crimson and violet, gay, Gently with carmine and purple away, Stately and proud they stand erect. A riot of color greets n.y sight. Dazzling my eyes in the strong sunlight.

It is tulip time and bobolinks tune And it is June.

Our pretty little town with its hills and dales, its splendid Memorial park and lovely Birchard gardens on the Mount, flower gardens everywhere, many wayside flower beds bordering the streets, make Mount Albert worth seeing in tulip time.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cook and Mrs. Ken Noble of Uxbridge were guests of Mrs. D. Cook on Sunday.

Saturday, June 4, is the big day in Mount Albert when the 14th annual sports day will be celebrated. Many old boys and girls return to make this a pleasant reunion. There will be ball games and other amusements for grown ups, races and a musical festival for the children, also Fifi, the clown, of Toronto.

The Newmarket bugle band will provide music and those who wish to may dance in the evening and there will also be pictures in the hall.

THE FURROW'S END
BY LEONARD HARMAN

So the conservation project in King township is to be dropped for the present. Mr. Aubrey Davis has exhibited very commendable public spirit in his initiation and support of the survey which was ably conducted by Kenneth Mayall. The dominion government has endorsed the experiment and agreed to provide 50 per cent of the money necessary for reforestation. Our local member has taken up the case with the Ontario legislature; but this is one of the several important questions that have been crowded off the program at Queen's Park by so much meaningless political bickering.

It is unfortunate that an attempt could not have been made to shape the Mayall report while it is hot. Mr. Davis is a successful business executive who is accustomed to getting results. He may become impatient at all the delay in this civic project and abandon his support. Is it possible to yet secure finances to justify the continuance of Mr. Mayall's work with Mr. Davis' contribution? York county would be justified in concentrating some of its reforestation efforts on King township; not that this township has the greatest need; but that here is an opportunity of combining forces to achieve significant results. To a substantial grant from York county might be added a substantial grant from King township. If our municipalities were to make these grants after adequate study and after explanation to the ratepayers there would be little objection.

UNBRIDGE CHURCH PLANS GOLDEN JUBILEE EVENTS

The congregation of the Unbridge United church is looking forward to the golden jubilee of the present imposing church building on June 5 and June 12, and the week between.

The special guest preachers will be on June 5, Rev. Dr. A. P. Addison, E.A., of Toronto, son of Rev. Peter Addison, who was minister when the church was built; and on June 12, Rev. Dr. John J. Coulter of Sarnia, a former minister who has enjoyed marked success since.

The present minister in Unbridge is Rev. Edward S. Bishop, whose father, Rev. Dr. George J. Bishop, was minister just prior to Rev. Peter Addison, and whose success contributed to the present building.

These jubilee plans will not interfere with the annual men's rally of the Business Men's Bible Class, on the afternoon of the first Sunday in June. Appropriately enough, the jubilee corresponds with the 30th anniversary of the Bible class, during all of which period the class has flourished under the able leadership of Thomas G. Gold. For the rally this year, on the afternoon of June 5, the special speaker is to be Rev. Dr. E. Crossley Hunter, the popular and dynamic minister of First United church, Hamilton.

At the regular services on both Sundays, it is planned to have a number of the choir members, of former years take their old places in the choir and lead in the worship of song. On the afternoon of June 12, another rally will be addressed by two other former highly honored ministers, Rev. C. W. Watch, a beloved veteran in the ministry, and Rev. A. E. Owen, of Hamilton, who preceded the present minister. Between Sundays several very interesting meetings will be held. On the Monday evening a "law" supper will be held on the beautiful lawn of the church, to be followed by a first class program in the commodious church auditorium, furnished by former friends and artists who have achieved distinction since leaving home.

On Tuesday evening, June 7, the Young People's Union are sponsoring a youth rally, which will feature a rousing youth program including an address by a popular and gifted young man. On Friday afternoon, June 10, the W.M.S. are planning a women's rally, with a suitable program, including an address by Mrs. McDougall, president of the Toronto East Presbyterian. For both these rallies, invitations have been extended to the young people and women, respectively, not only of the sister churches in the town, but to the churches covering a wide radius in neighboring towns and rural areas. Former residents of the town and members of the church, now resident elsewhere, are planning to be on hand. Some much needed improvements to the building add to the interest of the event.
